Dear NAEBer:

A member of the Executive Committee suggests that the President of NAEB take his feet of the desk and get to work. Who am I to argue.

1. This is official notice that an amendment to the Constitution of NAEB, presented formally to the NAEB Convention in Chicago on October 23, will be submitted to members for a mail vote on February 5. The President must rule that action taken at the Convention was not final, because the Constitution requires a 30-day notice of proposed changes. This is your official notice. (See Constitution sent you with the NAEB News Letter on December 1.)

2. Will you indicate your preference on a proposal made at the Convention that NAEB annual dues for members be increased to $20 annually and for associate members increased to $10 annually. The Executive Committee was empowered to act, only after polling all members. Those at the Convention believed the Association should further fortify itself by preparing for progressive action in the immediate post-war period. What is your wish?

Please indicate your feelings about the matter no later than February 1.

3. Pending acceptance or rejection of proposed constitutional change and expression of opinion on proposed increase of dues the National Office will not send out annual statements for dues. (Treasurer Griffith please sit tight.)

4. However, all those who have indicated willingness to assist with recent hearing before FCC, and who have not paid, will be billed for assistance within the week. Many have already paid. Others have never expressed themselves in any manner. Please do so.

Here and now express yourself on anything which you think NAEB should be doing. How do you like Jim Ebel's job on the News Letter? How do you like the series of articles? Will you assist when your help is needed?

A Happier New Year,

Respectfully,

Frank E. Schooley
